INDEX TO SEARCH AND SEIZURE LAW REPORT

Volume 25 (January 1998 - December 1998)

File this Index as pages 89-92 of the Volume 25-26 binder

[References are to page numbers]

- A -

AIDS virus, victim's right to know if defendant has, see Balancing rape victim's right to know against defendant's right to privacy

- B -

Balancing rape victim's right to know against defendant's right to privacy

Appellate division: mandatory testing statutes are constitutional, 20-21

Conclusion, 22-23

Constitutional ramifications of mandatory testing, 18-20

Federal legislation, 18

Introduction, 17

Mandatory AIDS testing debate, 21-22

Medical aspects of AIDS and HIV, 17-18

New Jersey supreme court: mandatory testing statutes are constitutional; probable cause must be established, 21

One state's approach, 20

Trial court: mandatory testing statutes are unconstitutional, 20

Blender, Allison Noelle

Author of article, 17-23

Boyd v. U.S., see In partial praise of Boyd: the grand jury as catalyst for Fourth Amendment change

- C -

Canton, State v. (Colorado), corroboration of anonymous tip through noncriminal observation held to create reasonable suspicion, 15-16

Carter, Minnesota v., Supreme Court rules defendants observed bagging cocaine in another person's apartment by officer peeking in the window through gap in a blind lacked standing to raise issue of violation of Fourth Amendment right, 88

Civilian review boards, see Race and pretextual traffic stops: expanded role for civilian review boards

Clancey, Thomas K.

Author of article, 57-64

Complexity of the Fourth Amendment: a historical review

Conclusion, 56

From general search to specific warrant, 51-53

Historical evidence supports warrant preference rule, 53-54

Overview, 49

Probable cause, 54-55

Reasonableness of Fourth Amendment, 55-56

Warrant requirement? 49-51

Connell, James G., III, and René L. Valladares

Authors of article, 25-31

Criminal Control Act of 1990 (Section 1804), see Balancing rape victim's right to know against defendant's right to privacy

- D -

Dickey, State v. (New Jersey), lengthy detention to establish probable cause after traffic stop held unconstitutional, 23-24

Dumas, People v. (Colorado), search of checkbook held included within scope of consent search, 23

- E -

Exclusionary rule reconsidered: restoring the status quo ante

Conclusion, 80

Deterrence justification emerges, 73-74

Effects of the restorative justification, 79-80

Overview, 73

Problems with deterrence justification, 74-76

Question of constitutional legitimacy, 76-77

Restoring the status quo ante, 77-79

See also In partial praise of Boyd: the grand jury as catalyst for Fourth Amendment change

- F -

Fourth Amendment and minority motorists

Behind the new consensus, 45-46

Minority motorists and the Court, 46-48

New consensus, 43-44

Overview, 41

Recent decisions, 41-43

See also Race and pretextual traffic stops: expanded role for civilian review boards; Race and the Fourth Amendment

Fourth Amendment history, see Complexity of the Fourth Amendment: a historical review

Fourth Amendment in the public schools: an overview

Conclusion, 15

Fourth Amendment, 9-10

Introduction, 9

Standard should not have been lowered in T.L.O., 13-15

Student rights and the Fourth Amendment, 10-13

Fourth Amendment protection in general, see What does the Fourth Amendment protect: property, privacy, or security?

Fourth Amendment protections for undocumented aliens within the United States

Conclusion, 31

Introduction, 25

Principle of territoriality, 26-27

Progeny of Verdugo-Urquidez, 30-31

Territorial emphasis in Verdugo-Urquidez, 27-28

Verdugo-Urquidez decision, 25-26

- G -

Grand juries, see In partial praise of Boyd: the grand jury as catalyst for Fourth Amendment change

- H -

Hecker, Sean

Author of article, 1-8

- I -

In partial praise of Boyd: the grand jury as catalyst for Fourth Amendment change

Conclusion, 40

Grand jury

And the Supreme Court, 36-37

As catalyst for change, 39-40

In colonial America, 35-36

Origin of power to indict, present and report, 35

Overview, 33-34

Practical benefits of proposal to change, 40

Proposal to change, 39

Specific power to report, 37-39

Status of exclusionary rule, 34-35

See also Exclusionary rule reconsidered: restoring the status quo ante

- M -

Maclin, Tracey

Author of articles, 48-56, 65-71

Mandatory AIDS testing, see Balancing rape victim's right to know against defendant's right to privacy

Misner, Robert L.

Author of article, 33-40

- N -

New Jersey v. T.L.O.*, see Fourth Amendment in the public schools: an overview

Norton, Jerry E.

Author of article, 73-80

- O -

O'Brien, State v.* (Utah), precautionary look into truck upheld based on furtive movements after traffic stop, 48

Ornelas v. U.S.*, see Fourth Amendment and minority motorists

- P -

Pendleton v. State* (Wyoming), search warrant held not to be pretextual, 72

Pretextual traffic stops, see Race and pretextual traffic stops: expanded role for civilian review boards; Race and the Fourth Amendment

Privacy, right to, see Balancing rape victim's right to know against defendant's right to privacy

Public school searches, see Fourth Amendment in the public schools: an overview

- R -

Race and pretextual traffic stops: expanded role for civilian review boards

Conclusion, 8

Other judicial solutions to DWB problem, 5-6

Overview, 1

Selective enforcement of traffic laws, 1-4

Unanimous victory for police discretion, 4-5

Use of police civilian review boards, 6-8

See also Fourth Amendment and minority motorists; Race and the Fourth Amendment

Race and the Fourth Amendment

Conclusion, 71

Fourth Amendment substance, 70-71

Introduction, 65-66

Linkage between race and the Fourth Amendment, 68-69

Pretext seizures, 66-68

See also Fourth Amendment and minority motorists; Race and pretextual traffic stops: expanded role for civilian review boards

Redmon, United States v.*, see United States v. Redmon: trashing the Fourth Amendment

Reyes, People v.* (Colorado), canine sniff inside truck interior held constitutional, 31-32

Robinette, Ohio v.*, see Fourth Amendment and minority motorists; Race and the Fourth Amendment

- S -

School searches, see Fourth Amendment in the public schools: an overview

Scott, State v.* (Hawaii), anticipatory search warrants held barred on statutory grounds, 16

Security, concept of, see What does the Fourth Amendment protect: property, privacy, or security?

Sklansky, David A.

Author of article, 41-48

Stone, Corin R.

Author of article, 9-15

- T -

Tinkham, State v.*, principal's search of student held lawful, 71-72

Traffic stops, see Fourth Amendment and minority motorists; Race and pretextual traffic stops: expanded role for civilian review boards; Race and the Fourth Amendment

Trash searches, see United States v. Redmon: trashing the Fourth Amendment

- U -

Undocumented aliens, Fourth Amendment protections for, see Fourth Amendment protections for undocumented aliens within the United States

United States v. Redmon*: trashing the Fourth Amendment

Conclusion, 88

Introduction, 81

Proposed approaches, 86-88

United States v. Redmon: privacy rights in driveway trash can, 84-86

Warrantless trash searches and the Supreme Court, 81-84

- V -

Valladares, René L., and James G. Connell, III

Authors of article, 25-31

Verdugo-Urquidez, U.S. v.*, see Fourth Amendment protections for undocumented aliens within the United States

Victim's right to know, see Balancing rape victim's right to know against defendant's right to privacy

- W -

Walker, Michelle S.

Author of article, 81-88

What does the Fourth Amendment protect: property, privacy, or security?

Basis of security right, 63-64

Concept of security, 59-63

Conclusion, 64

Introduction, 57-58

Right to be secure, 58-59

Whren v. U.S.*, see Fourth Amendment and minority motorists; Race and pretextual traffic stops: expanded role for civilian review boards; Race and the Fourth Amendment